

ELDON L. JOB TELLS EXPERIENCE

STATE FAIR SCHOOL BOY HAD GOOD TIME AT SEDALIA.

ADVISES EVERY BOY TO TRY FOR TRIPS

Enjoyed Lectures, Exhibits and Amusements—Thanks Maryville Commercial Club for Trip.

Maryville, Mo., Oct. 3, 1916.—To the readers of this paper and Prof. Bert Cooper, the Maryville Commercial club and the farmer boys of Nodaway county: Frank Russell and I were the two boys fortunate enough to win a scholarship in the examination given by Prof. Cooper, to the boys' state fair school at Sedalia, Mo. Frank was unable to attend when the time came to go, so I represented the county alone, and must say it has been a week of pleasure and profit.

My expenses while at the fair were paid by the state board of agriculture, and my railroad fare to and from Sedalia was paid by the Maryville Commercial club. I have tried my best to learn something worth while from the fine lectures that I heard from able men on subjects that were interesting to us boys. I want to say to the 15-year-old boys of Nodaway county that it is worth your time and effort to try for this scholarship next year.

I left Maryville Sept. 23, with two double blankets, a small grip full of necessary clothing and a kodak, borrowed from Jim Carpenter. I had a flashy lemon-colored ribbon pinned on my coat with the words "Boys' State Fair School" printed on it.

At St. Joseph a boy named Elmer Shoenaker of Buchanan county boarded the train with the same kind of a tag on him, and we were chums the remainder of the time. When we got to Kansas City we met six other boys from Atchison, Andrew and Worth counties. On account of poor connection we did not get to Sedalia until about 10 p. m. We took the car to the fair grounds.

About sixty of us who had arrived slept in the lecture tent that night, and by Sunday noon our sleeping tents were up. I tell you, boys, if you ever do go down, don't get the idea that you will be turned loose like a bunch of Indians to roam at will. If you do you will get fooled. You will be in school down there, and if you disobey rules you will be sent home.

Prof. T. J. Walkes had us in charge. He is a member of the educational department at Jefferson City, and a grand good man for the job. The handling of more than two hundred boys from the rural districts at a state fair is some charge. I am sorry to say that one boy was sent home and others reprimanded.

Each morning from 8:15 to 8:30 o'clock was roll call. Then came breakfast at the dining tent, and at the time stated on the program we would assemble at the lecture tent ready for the lectures. Sunday afternoon we had a sermon from the Rev. Irving Batchelor. At 2 p. m. we marched to the stock pavilion and heard a sacred concert by Thavie's band. The following are the other days' programs: Monday, 9:30, address of welcome by Geo. Harris, president of the fair; 11:30, lecture, "The Dairy Cow," Hon. P. P. Lewis. We also had a lecture on "The Strawpile; How to Handle It," by Mr. D. W. McKee. In the afternoon we marched to the amphitheater, where a place was reserved for us, and we saw the races.

Tuesday at 9:30, lecture, "The Greatest Business in the World, Agriculture," by the Hon. P. P. Lewis; 10:00, lecture, "Choosing a Vocation," by Dean F. B. Mumford; 11:00, lecture, "Farm Weeds," S. M. Jordan. In the afternoon we visited the stock barns (Continued on Page 2.)

PALMER COLLEGE FRIDAY

The Normal Football Team Will Open Season at Home With the College Team of Albany.

The State Normal school football team will play their opening game Friday with the Palmer college team of Albany at the Normal athletic field.

William Jewell college team of Liberty has been added to the football schedule. This game will be played at Liberty on November 3. The other games scheduled are:

October 20—Missouri Wesleyan college, at Cameron.

October 27—Highland college of Highland, Kan., at Maryville.

November 10—Tarkio college at Maryville.

November 17—Springfield normal, at Maryville.

November 20—Kirksville normal, at Kirksville.

Coach George Palfreyman, Jr., assisted by C. H. Belting, head of the agricultural department, and who played with the University of Illinois and was selected as a member of the All-Western team, are busily at work with the men. The indications are fine for a good team.

Members of the team who will play Friday will be selected by Coach Palfreyman from the following, who composed the squad:

Sam Hartman and Forrest Brown, center.

Ralph Palmer, Harold Sawyers, Fred Lawton and Ray Nicholas, guards.

Charles Byerum, Edison Black, Charles Wallace and Clyde Sawyers, tackles.

Homer Scott, Clem Hahn, Joe Farmer and Melvin Neal, ends.

Verne Pickens, Neal Gerard, George Hubbell, Viron Bird and Mr. Andrews, back field.

The line of the team will probably average in weight 165, while the back field will average probably 150 pounds.

VIOLENCE IN MILK STRIKE

One Farmer Near Death as Result—
May Spread to National Capital
If Committee Agrees.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

New York, Oct. 3.—Violence began to mark the war between the big milk dealers and the farmers. One farmer is near death at the hospital as the result of being set upon by men lurking in ambush when taking a load of milk to the station. Thousands of gallons are being wasted by the roadside. Today's supply was less than fifty per cent of normal.

A Washington dispatch of today says that the milk strike may spread to the national capital. Maryland and Virginia dealers, who supplied the city, will meet Thursday to determine whether the strike shall spread.

P. O. LANDON ON COMMITTEE

Elected President to Fill Place of W.
Jackson, Who Resigned—From Lycium Association.

Warren R. Jackson, out-going secretary of the Maryville Commercial club, resigned as president of the Lycium Committee association at the meeting yesterday afternoon at the Commercial club rooms. Prof. P. O. Landon was elected to fill Mr. Jackson's place for the remainder of the year.

A discussion of the publicity plans and methods of ticket selling was the only other business taken up by the committee. An active ticket selling campaign will be put on at once, and an effort will be made to dispose of as many season tickets as possible.

To St. Joseph Today.

L. B. Tracy, shoe buyer for the Alderman-Yehle dry goods store, went to St. Joseph this morning to meet a representative of Queen Quality shoes to buy fall and winter stocks.

Mrs. W. E. Johnson and daughters, Misses Theima and Dorothy, returned to Hatfield, Kan., this morning, after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Neeley of Quitman.

MARSHALL AND SMITH RECEIVES MUCH COMMENT

With McAllister, Hay, Booher, Dawson, McKnight to Speak—Gardner, Reed
and Clark May Come.

The tent where the Scoville revival meetings have been held was taken down today by a man representing the Baker & Lockwood company of Kansas City, who own the tent. This tent will be stored in the township board building on East Second street and held there until the Democratic Rally Day on Thursday, October 12, when it will be set up probably on the Kelly lots on East Third street.

Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall, Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia; Frank W. McAllister, Democratic candidate for attorney-general; Charles M. Hay of St. Louis; Congressman Charles F. Booher; John M. Dawson, candidate for circuit judge; and James W. McKnight, candidate for state senator; are the speakers for the day and will sure be here. Vice-President Marshall will speak in the afternoon while Senator Hoke Smith will speak in the evening.

It is probable that Col. F. D. Gardner, Democratic candidate for governor, will be in Maryville that day. This is not definitely decided on by the state committee. Senator James A. Reed is also trying to come to Maryville to speak that day as well as Speaker Champ Clark.

The meeting will be the biggest political rally ever held in Maryville, and more prominent speakers will be here than ever spoke at a political rally in Maryville.

READY FOR HOMECOMING

Everything Prepared for Annual Baptist
All-Day Service—Rev. Mr.
Wiles Expected Tomorrow.

The annual homecoming day of the First Baptist church will be held Sunday and an all-day service will be held. The Rev. T. H. Wiles, Louisville, Ky., will preach at the morning and evening service that day and it is probable that a call will be extended to the Rev. Mr. Wiles to become the pastor of the church. Basket dinner will be held at noon and a business meeting of the church with reports from the various departments will be read in the afternoon.

The converts that were secured at the Scoville meetings will be taken in the church Sunday.

On Thursday evening, the Men's class and the Amoma class will hold a reception at the church and prospective class members have been invited to attend. It is expected that there will be 250 in attendance and refreshments will be served. The Rev. Mr. Wiles is expected in Maryville tomorrow and he will make a short talk at this reception.

W. D. BRACKEN BURIED

Funeral Services for Quitman Resident Held Yesterday—Burial in Burlington Junction Cemetery.

The funeral of Walter D. Bracken who died at his home near Quitman Sunday morning, was held at the Quitman Methodist church yesterday afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Murphy conducted the service. Burial was in the cemetery at Burlington Junction. The members of the I. O. O. F. lodge of which Mr. Bracken was a member, attended in a body.

Mr. Bracken was born October, 1854. He married Miss Cordelia Wood in 1880 and five children were born to them. Mrs. Bracken died June 14, 1903. The three living children are: Miss Jessie Bracken of Braddyville, Miss Grace Bracken of Quitman and James William Bracken of Washington. Mr. Bracken and his daughter, Miss Grace, had been living on the Wood farm near Quitman for some time.

Mr. Bracken had been in poor health for several years. He suffered with bright's disease which caused his death.

FINE CATTLE IN SHOW

BELLOWS BROS. AND CALDWELLS
AT KANSAS CITY ROYAL SHOW.

RECEIVES MUCH COMMENT

Horns an Unnecessary Adjunct to Prime Beef, According to E. F.
Caldwell in Interview.

Charles D. Bellows, Dale Bellows and Harold Bellows of this city and C. D. Caldwell and E. F. Caldwell of Burlington Junction are in attendance at the American Royal Stock Show in Kansas City. Bellows Bros. have ten head of their fine Shorthorns in the show and the Caddwells have a number of head of their fine Aberdeen-Angus there.

In the Aberdeen Angus fat cattle show C. D. and E. F. Caldwell won second prize on Billy Berg. In the yearling class the Caddwells won first on Blackbird Lad. They also took first in the steer calves class on Luckily. In the groups the Caddwells won first.

The Kansas City Star of yesterday contained the following:

"Since January 1," said F. W. Harding of Chicago, secretary of the American Shorthorn Breeders' Association, "more Shorthorn cattle have been sold for $1000 and upward than any other breed, either beef or dairy, and record prices obtained at last year's American Royal Show for eHrefores have been exceeded several times."

"The most notable instance was that in which Bellows Brothers of Maryville received prices averaging $1,140 at a sale of Shorthorns. Eighty-one head of Shorthorns were sold by our association to Argentina at big prices."

"Horns are to beef cattle what the wisdom tooth is to the human race," said E. F. Caldwell of Burlington Junction today.

Mr. Caldwell naturally thinks so, for he is the Aberdeen-Angus representative on the board of directors of the Royal, and is the owner of the premier herd of that breed of non-horns.

"The wisdom tooth is a relic of the cave days, when men took their food raw and breakfast food came in the husk," he said. "Soft foods have largely eliminated the wisdom tooth. The human race has no use for it."

"In the same way the cattle have little use for the horns, for the days of danger from wolves are largely passed. We claim the Aberdeen-Angus breed is the highest type of beef cattle. Not only has the horn been eliminated, but also the long legs and the other parts which weigh heavy, but do not have the value on the cutting block."

"The Angus breed claims all block records. Our cattle dress out around 66 per cent, thus leaving only 34 per cent waste."

Mr. Caldwell asserts that the beef cattle of the future must be a non-horn, non-waste type to make the best showing on the high priced lands.

"Many people are fooled on the weight of the Angus cattle because of their short legs," Mr. Caldwell said. He stood beside his senior champion bull, Black Cap Bertram, two years old. The bull came to the top button on his vest, and Mr. Caldwell is scarcely of average height.

"He weighs 2,100 pounds," he remarked.

"Bo" is a calf. "Bo" isn't his real name, it is just the temporary one given him by the menials who look after him, pending the day when he will be duly registered and given one of the Pullman car titles accorded to Aberdeen-Anguses of high breeding.

"Bo" gets his present undignified sobriquet from circumstances distinguishing his career from that of the (Continued on Page 3.)

1ST NUMBER SOON CROWD SEES PLAY

MARYVILLE LYCEUM COURSE PRE-SENTS LYCUM, OCT. 19.

HERE BECAUSE OF WAR

Grand Opera Singer Had Engagements
Aboard, But Had to Cancel Them
—History of Life.

The first number of the Maryville lyceum course will be given on Thursday evening, October 19, by James Goddard, grand opera soloist. Having gained laurels in Paris, London and Vienna and other European musical centers, he had planned for another tour through Italy, singing at Venice, Rome, Naples, Milan and other places, but had to cancel this tour on account of the present war.

Mr. Goddard was born and reared on a farm near Knoxville, Tenn. He came from a family with natural voices, and in his early boyhood days was known as the "Boy Wonder." After having studied for a year with William Clare Hall, tenor, of Chicago, Mr. Goddard sailed for Paris, October 19, 1909, to continue his studies with Jean de Reszke, studying with the wonderful master for two years. He made his debut October 19, 1911, at the Royal opera, Covent Garden, London, England. After singing the leading bass roles for three seasons, Mr. Goddard was engaged for six years with the Imperial opera of Vienna, Austria, where he sang the leading bass parts for one year, at which time the great European war broke out and Mr. Goddard, like many other artists, was forced to leave Europe and returned to America. According to critics, Mr. Goddard is one of the leading bass-baritones on the concert and operatic stage today.

An appreciation of Mr. Goddard from the London Times follows:

Saturday's performance at Covent Garden spread out the luxuries of Verdi's "Aida" in the most tempting manner. With a magnificent cast of singers, the whole presentation was the most brilliant that could be desired. Mr. Goddard sang the Ramfis with inflexible dignity of manner. His singing, too, stood the test of being placed beside that of Signor Caruso, Scotti and Madame Kirby Lund, and showed him to be an artist.

FIGHTING NOW ON BULGAR SOIL

RUMANIANS SWEEP ACROSS DAN-UBE INTO BULGARIA.

GERMANS TRYING TO HOLD BAPAUME

Gigantic Struggle in Greek Macedonia Continues With Six Nations Engaged in Battle.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

London, Oct. 3.—Fighting is in progress on Bulgarian soil for the first time since the war began. The Rumanians who swept across the Danube not only carried hostilities into Ferdinand's kingdom, but are even menacing the rear of Mackensen's forces.

Gains for Allies.

Sophia, Oct. 3.—Gains for the allies in Greek Macedonia were admitted by the Bulgarian war office today.

Germans Defend Bapaume.

Paris, Oct. 3.—A strong counter attack has been undertaken by the Germans in an effort to prevent the French from advancing against Bapaume from the south. The French war office states that the Germans began an assault at St. Pierre, in the vast woods north of Rancourt, but were flung back with heavy losses.

Artillery duels were reported in progress north of Rancourt all night.

The gigantic engagement in Greek Macedonia continues with the soldiers of six nations engaged. The Balkan war office report chronicles the capture of the first line of the trenches of the Bulgars near Kalsmakalan by the Serbs. The Bulgarians suffered heavy losses. The troops of England, France and Russia and the Serbians are locked in battle with the Bulgarians and Germans.

Still Hold Initiative.

London, Oct. 3.—"Battle of Hermentstadt shows the offensive force of the Central Powers and proves they still hold the initiative in the Rumanian theatre where according to the British and French, indications of a decision may be reached in war." The foregoing contained in the resume of operations in the Rumanian theatre issued today by official Overseas News.

The Bulgar forces on the Struma front in Greece have been routed by the British, the war office announced. The Bulgarians attacked the new positions of the British but were repulsed. The British then attacked with bayonet, routing the Bulgars and capturing a number of prisoners.

5,000 Prisoners Taken.

Petrograd, Oct. 3.—The capture of 5,000 prisoners during the fighting in Galicia Sunday and Monday was reported by war office today. The official statement calls the fighting between Zlotolipa and Nariuvka rivers "very stubborn" and still in progress.

Great Battle in Dobrudja.

London, Oct. 3.—A great battle is progressing in Dobrudja, a Petrograd correspondent of the London Telegraph wired this afternoon.

ARMY FIELD DAYS

WAR GAMES AND CONTEST POPU-LAR AMONG BRITISH TROOPS.

HELMET RACE, FAVORITE

New Methods of Warfare Have Changed
Form of Amendments—Bayonet Contest Example.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

London, Oct. 3.—Ahe Germans call the British mad because of their passion for sports. But it was a Canadian division which chose to have its movable kitchens cooking a real meal as it passed Minister of War Lloyd-George in review, that later held the first field and track meet in which only war games were contested. Since then these field days have become popular all through the British forces.

The old time war game, a sort of chess played by senior commanders, is not of much use in this "war of position." In its stead many other games have been invented. One favorite is a gas helmet race. The spectacle of a line of men wearing their helmets and looking like bipeds with elephants' heads racing over a 100-yard course makes one who sees it for the first time burst into laughter.
"Digging in under fire," another favorite sport, bears a strong resemblance to hard work. Each competitor has an entrenching tool and ten minutes in which to show what a fine cover for himself against a hostile
"Jack Johnson" he can make in that time.

Bomb throwing matches are sometimes played from practice trenches, but usually on a smooth surface. The bombs by the rules must be bowled and not thrown. The target is thirty or forty yards away. It resembles in shape a gigantic "hot cross gun" and the maximum in points is awarded for missiles dropped in a circle at the center of the cross.

The Canadians were the first to establish barbed wire fence buildings as a sport. Nine coils of barbed wire and twenty posts are the material.
The competitors must build an "apron fence" and the team first completing its work in a satisfactory manner wins.

One curious rule in this game is that no talking may be done. In the field these fences are built at night close to the enemy, who would be much interested in the work if he knew about it.

The old stretcher bearer competition consisted in four men carrying a bandaged "patient" on a stretcher for a hundred yards. Sometimes a glass of water was placed on the stretcher and the spilling of a drop eliminated the team.

The Canadians have improved this sport by abolishing the stretcher—it must now be improvised out of the nearest available material.

The wearers of the maple leaf have also improved what is called the "Victoria Cross race." The old way mounted men galloped from one end of the arena to the other, snatched up a straw stuffed figure supposed to be a fallen comrade, threw it across the saddle and rode back through a storm of blank cartridges. The Canadians laughed at the dummies. They use real men weighing twenty times as much.

The war has changed bayonet fighting methods. In the old bayonet game the wire-helmeted fencer, swaddled in pads and wielding a knob-headed weapon, parried and thrust at his antagonist, both standing their ground.
"The bayonet fighter of the old school," said an instructor in the new practice, "would be killed while he was feinting, dodging, giving ground and looking for an opening."

The new bayonet contest is a kind of obstacle, in which the competitor stabs, jabs and bludgeons as he runs, using the point of a naked bayonet and the butt of a service rifle, always going forward, never feinting or giving ground an inch.

$46,456.85 has been spent in permanently improving Rothwell Gymnasium, Rollins Field and adjoining came from University funds appropriated by the state legislature. Nearly all of the money comes from the sale of admission tickets to the various athletic contests.

TELLS EXPERIENCE

and the displays of all kinds. At night we saw a grand horse show at the stock pavilion.

Wednesday, 9:00, lecture, "Farm Crops and Their Relative Value," by Prof. Childers; 9:30, lecture, "Poultry Raising," by Mr. C. T. Patterson. This is where I almost got in bad. We had a boy in our bunch that had hair redder than Prof. Oakerson's. When Mr. Patterson was explaining balanced rations to produce the yolk or white of eggs, one of the boys pointed at Red and said to me, "That kid got too much rations to produce yaller," and I laughed out. 10:00, talk by J. Kelly Wright. He offered a premium of $1.00 to the boy that would give him a name for his subject. 10:30, lecture, "Organizing Farm Clubs," by Prof. R. H. Emmerson; 11:00, went to pavilion to hear Senator Stone speak.

A rain and hail storm came up and made the track so muddy the races were called off. I put in the afternoon with my kodak. At night the boys led the dairy cows to the pavilion for the dairy show, and after that came the driving and saddle horse show.

Thursday, we had our pictures taken. C. T. Patterson gave us a talk on judging and scoring pigs. At 9:40 we had a lecture by Jewell Mayes on "Hunting Your Life Work With Blood-
hounds." 10:00, lecture, "Judging Seed Corn," by Prof. Childers; 10:30, lecture, "The Dairy Cow," by Prof.
VanPelt. In the afternoon we visited all the exhibits and at night led the beef cattle to the show at the pavilion.

By this time we boys had begun to get pretty well acquainted. We had plenty of nicknames. One boy we called "Owl," on account of his hook nose and the peculiar noise he made in his sleep. "Short," "Red" and "Dutch" were other names. We often found some strange thing in our beds when we retired. I found a sledge hammer one night.

Friday was awful cold. At 9:00 we had a lecture, "Soy Beans," by S. M.
Jordan. At 10 o'clock we went to the pavilion and judged beef cattle and mules under the direction of S. T.
Simpson. We had the remainder of the day to visit exhibits. I started home at 6:00 p. m.

I took two pictures of the world's champion stallion, owned by J. O.
Singlemaster and son of Keota, Ia.
There was 1,471 head of live stock of all classes. Jacks, jennets and mules, 74; draft horses, 68; dairy cattle, 254;
beef cattle, 283; hogs, 480; sheep, 312,
the biggest hog weighed 1,120 pounds.
It was a Poland-China owned by Will
G. Lockridge, Fayette, Mo., was 2 years old. A. D. and E. F. Caldwell of Burlington Junction took a lot of premiums on their Angus cattle. The poultry exhibit was fine.

The display in the agricultural building was so grand no farmer boy could ever forget it. The building was decorated with golden rod and smilax.
In the center was a large fountain filled with goldfish. I looked and inquired from those in charge for corn or fruit or something from Nodaway county. I saw lots of things that looked like they came from here but they didn't. Frank Saunders of Andrew, who took the first premiums on corn at our fair, took premiums here, and Gentry county took premiums here. Why can't we? We have better corn soil than any of them.

There were some fine county displays. I looked them over very close, because we have been talking of taking a display from this county. If we ever do, and expect to win, we must fix for it some time before hand. I think 212 boys answered to roll call, representing every county in the state but one. I think these schools are well worth the money, and will be better every year. I think I have learned more than at school, but will need to hustle to catch up with my class.
When I do, if you want me to tell some of the things brought out in these lectures, I will try it.

Respectfully submitted,
ELDON L. JOB.

WANT DIXIE CHANGED

New York H. S. Children Start Movement to Eliminate Dialect From Various Songs.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

New York, Oct. 3.—New York high school teachers have appointed a committee which will ask music publishers and others to eliminate negro dialect and make various other changes in songs.

In "The Star Spangled Banner"
"perilous fight" is to be changed to
"clouds of the fight," if the teachers have their way, and the uniform key will be changed from B flat to A flat to make the singing easier for the average voice.

In "Dixie" "de" will be changed to "the," and "nebbin" to "never." The teachers say it is difficult to teach English in the schools, with the number of children of foreign parents growing, and negro dialect confuses
the little ones.

Funeral Tomorrow at Ravenwood.
The funeral of Robert Ross, who died at his home in Ravenwood Monday morning, will be tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Christian church in Ravenwood, conducted by the Rev. Lloyd Ellis of Des Moines.
The burial will take place at the Ra-venwood cemetery.

Miss Edyth Johnson of Princeton,
Mo., will visit Mrs. Perry Miller of Barnard this week.

THE GARDNER LAND BANK AND WHY

The chief argument made against the Gardner Land Bank is that it is unnecessary, now that a rural credit act has been passed and locations for banks are being selected to place it into operation. Assuming perfection in that act in its workability and that the state of Missouri will get her full proportional benefit, let us see whether or not we need the Gardner Land Bank.

There are now about $118,000,000 of farm mortgages in this state. The rural credits act appropriates at most $180,000,000 to the whole country, Missouri's proportional share being $9,000,000. When all this shall have been taken, we will still have $109,000,000 of mortgages on the old basis of high interest, short time and a large per cent commission paid for renewals. Thus we see that the federal act at best will take care of but 9 per cent of the present outstanding mortgages and provide no new capital whatever for the development of our farms.

It is this development of the productivity of Missouri farms which is the fundamental purpose of the Land Bank. In order to make the state of Missouri produce the crops that should be produced and enable her farmers to go into the live stock business on the scale they should, thousands of farmers must have capital at low cost and on long time, with which to build fences, buy machinery, construct buildings and silos, fertilize their land and do many other things necessary to modern profitable farming.

It is the purpose of the Gardner Land Bank to provide this capital. The federal plan is not going to do it in anything like the needed quantity. The Land Bank bonds, perfectly secured by the mortgages upon which they rest and by the credit of the state of Missouri, will be a gilt-edged investment. Money in vast quantities is seeking such absolutely secure investment at 4 per cent and even less. Security rather than high interest is the desideratum for money seeking investment amounting in the total to billions of dollars. This money can be drawn into Missouri in great sums for the upbuilding of the agriculture of the state, which means for the promotion of general prosperity.

But let us consider merely the phase of the matter of saving of annual interest cost. In the first place, attention is called to the fact that the interest rate under the federal system is called to the per cent, while under the Land Bank it would be only 4.5 per cent. This difference is caused by the complicated and expensive machinery embraced in the federal act, with the necessary profits included, as compared with the simple machinery of the Land Bank, with no profits added. It is plain to see that any farmer would prefer to borrow under the Land Bank plan. But passing that, let us consider the saving to the farmers of Missouri involved in transforming their present mortgages into Land Bank loans.

The average interest on the $118,000,000 mortgages is said to be 6.5 per cent. This is on the surface. Actually it is doubtless much more. But at that rate the annual interest charge is $7,660,000. At the Land Bank rate of 4.5 per cent it would be $5,310,000, making an annual saving to the present mortgage giving farmers of Missouri of $2,350,000. But that is not all. Commissions have to be paid for these loans and their renewal. Some of them are for shorter terms than three years and some commissions are higher than 2 per cent, but figuring all at three years and 2 per cent, we have for the $118,000,000 of new and renewed mortgages in Missouri every year a commission of $800,000, which would be saved by the Land Bank loans. This would make a total annual saving of $3,380,000 to the farmers of Missouri if only the present mortgages could be converted into Land Bank loans, without counting the value of the new loans made for the development of Missouri farms.

Another objection is made, that the supplying of this initial capital of $1,000,000 is a misuse of public money and class legislation. In the first place it is merely a loan, provision being made for the repayment of the money. In the second place the principle of use of public money for the promotion of agriculture, the very foundation of national prosperity, has become firmly established in both our state and federal governments. The present administration at Washington has gone to further lengths in this matter, both through the Department of Agriculture and the rural credits act, than any of its predecessors. It is too late to attack that principle, which has for years been put into execution by administrations of both parties.

The simplicity of the Land Bank machinery has been attacked. We have seen that this simplicity would save the borrowers 1.7 per cent interest over the cost of the rural credit loans, and that is something to commend rather than to criticize. The regular state and county officers are made to perform the duties which a multitude of salary getters will perform for the rural credits banks, every dollar thus saved going into the pockets of the borrowers.

The only other objections made are purely legal questions, which the voter cannot undertake to decide. Surely no voter who wants the Land Bank established is going to vote against it merely because some lawyer raises doubts of its constitutionality. That is a question for the courts. The voters want it. If, after having voted for it in such a majority as to pass the amendment, it should be decided void for unconstitutionality, they will be profoundly disappointed, and will doubtless immediately proceed to remodel it upon constitutional lines. But they are not going to vote against it for any such reason. They will vote for it because they want it. If the lawyers succeed in beating it afterwards in the courts, they will be sorry, but they are not going to be scared away from it in advance.

Four years ago it would have seemed unbelievable that any President, devoting all his effort and energies to questions of domestic policy alone, could by any possibility accomplish what Woodrow Wilson has accomplished since March 4, 1913. Yet this extraordinary program of domestic legislation has been carried through in the midst of more serious foreign complications than any other President has had to meet.

Mr. Hughes spoke disparagingly of the child-labor act. He disapproves of the railroad eight-hour law, which averted a nationwide strike. He is infallibly against everything that congress or the administration may do, and being in an entirely negative frame of mind he has nothing to offer instead except that an experiment be made with him in the White House.

"Maine went hell bent for Governor Kent." Republicans so accustomed to defeat and of the loss of their strongholds of late, are so happy that that old Republican Gibraltar didn't get away that they are actually crowing over it. It is like the Dutch still holding on to Holland.

If Hughes is President, and God forbid, he will carry the label throughout his administration, "Made at Oyster Bay."

A "BUSTED STATE TREASURY."

So the state of Missouri is "busted flatter than a fritter," according to Judge Lamm. Too bad, if it were true. State Auditor John P. Gordon refutes this campaign lie with facts and figures.

"We have in the state treasury, at Jefferson City, $4,763,066.55," says Mr. Gordon. "Four years ago, under Governor Hadley, a Republican, on the same date, there was in the treasury of the state only $3,061,930.41, which shows the treasury today under Democratic rule has $1,701,136.14 more than when Hadley was Governor."

Judge Lamm is a great humorist, a great joker, but he will find that in his careless handling of the facts the people will not be willing to take a "joke."

MOTHER LOVE AIDS SON IN TRENCHES

It Brings Relief to Boy Standing His Watch Deep in Mud.

Once upon a time, only a few months after this terrible world war had begun, Private Bailey, a soldier in the ranks had stood for days in the trenches "somewhere in France." The cold rains soaked him to the skin; the mud was deep. He had had no rest. Weary and aching with rheumatic pains, he recalled the faith his mother had in Sloan's Liniment. He asked for it in his next letter home. A large bottle was immediately sent him and a few applications killed the pain, once more he was able to stand the severe exposure. He shared this wonderful muscle soother with his comrades, and they all agreed it was the greatest "reinforcement" that had ever come to their rescue. At your druggist, 25c, 50c and $1.00 a bottle.

Plans for a County-Wide Picnic.

The men of the St. Patrick's Catholic church will meet next Sunday for the purpose of discussing plans for a county Catholic picnic next summer. FINE CATTLE IN SHOW ordinary calf. Some three weeks ago when the exhibit of C. D. and E. F. Caldwell of Burlington Junction, Mo., was being prepared to leave the fair at Hamlin, Minn., it was noted that Eritus, a 3-year-old Angus heifer, seemed to be evincing unusual interest in something in a far corner of her stall. The something was a small, wabbling calf. The train was almost ready to start, and there was nothing to do except load Eritus and her calf aboard.

Milwaukee, Wis., was the next stop of the Caldwell herd. It was hardly expected that the new calf would survive the journey. But when the train arrived at its destination, it was not only still alive, but, to all appearances, enjoying itself hugely.

"A ho, hoo!" said an attendant, and the calf got its name.

WANTING A PUBLIC ROAD.

Jonas Campbell Requested Court to Open a Road Through Hollensbee Farm to His Farm.

The members of the county court went to the Jonas W. Campbell farm in the northwest part of Polk township this morning to look over the proposed plan for a new private road to the Campbell farm through the Hollensbee farm. Such a petition for the new road was filed by Campbell at the August term of court and as there is no road leading to the farm, the indications are that the new road will be granted. The proposed road will be a half of a mile in length.

Entertained at Dinner.

Misses Beulah and Iva Mounts entertained with a 12 o'clock dinner Sunday. Plates were laid for Misses Bernice McGinness, May McGinness, Thelma Eaton, Blanche Erickson, Ruth Erickson, Messrs. Harold Erickson, Robert McGinness, Herman and Dewey Mounts. After dinner the party motored to Maryville to attend the Ecoville meeting.

Morrissey-Egan Wedding.

Miss Anna Morrissey and Thomas Egan, both of Conception, were married at the Cathedral in St. Joseph at 7:30 o'clock this morning. The attendants were Miss Nell Morrissey, a sister of the bride, and George Egan, a brother of Mr. Egan.

The bride wore a traveling suit of gray with a purple hat. Her sister was gown in blue crepe de chine.

After the ceremony the couple left for Kansas City where they will make a short visit before going to Omaha to spend two weeks.

Upon their return they will be at home on the farm of Mr. Egan, four miles south of Conception.

Mrs. Egan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Morrissey. She was born and reared in Conception, and at one time was engaged in the millinery business. Mr. Egan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Egan.

Simplicity, Keynote

At Wilson-Holmes Wedding.

Simplicity was the keynote in the marriage ceremony of Miss Aurelia Wilson and G. B. Holmes, Jr., of Maryville, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wilson of Smithville, at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Little Ely Wilson, a sister of the bride, dressed in white over pink, met the guests at the door and escorted them into the living room, where punch was served by Misses Ruth Wilson and Ruby Majors. Receiving the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Angstad of Kansas City.

The ceremony was performed in the parlor, made beautiful by a profusion of yellow chrysanthemums and asparagus ferns. Miss Lucile Holmes played the wedding march from Lohengrin. The bridal couple stood under a canopy of the chrysanthemums and ferns while Dr. Fred Loos of the Christian church of Liberty conducted the impressive ring service. Russell Burris of Maryville, a cousin of Mr. Holmes, and Miss Sallie Wilson, a sister of the bride, were the attendants.

The bride was simply dressed in a gown of white brocaded silk crepe and wore no ornaments. Miss Wilson, her attendant, was dressed in white silk mull.

After the ceremony a luncheon was served on individual waiters by the boys of the party.

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Holmes left for Kansas City, where they spent Monday. Then they left for their new home in Concordia, Kan., and will start housekeeping at once at 522 East Sixth street.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Holmes, parents of Mr. Holmes, Miss Lucile Holmes, his sister, and Russell Burris of Maryville, and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Holmes and daughter of St. Joseph attended the wedding.

The wedding guests were limited to the immediate members of the family and to the schoolmates of Miss Wilson.

We Told You So

Over twenty-five years ago we helped to organize the first mutual fire insurance company at Rock Port, Mo., and the first mutual tornado insurance company in the state of Missouri. The wise men of that time told us we would fail in this undertaking in less than five years, but, behold our mutuals have outlived a quarter of a century and have paid out over $200,000 in losses. Our companies insure brick business houses and contents and frame and brick dwellings and contents in towns and cities in Missouri and automobiles anywhere in Missouri, against loss or damage by fire, lightning, tornadoes, cyclones and windstorms, and farm property against tornadoes, anywhere in the state of Missouri. In the State Mutual Automobile Ins. Co. the insurance is good anywhere in the United States or Canada.

The Rock Port Mutual Ins. Co.'s have over fifteen million dollars in assessable capital, as can be seen by our new book of information, containing ten thousand names, that is now ready to mail free to anyone wanting a copy. Sample can be seen at the office of the Democrat-Forum.

None were registered for less than four years.

Advices Higher Newspaper Rates.

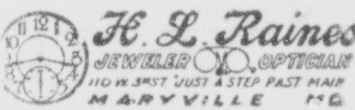

"An increase in subscription and advertising rates will be of benefit to all concerned," said J. B. Powell, instructor in advertising at the University of Missouri, before the Missouri Press Association convention in Kansas City recently.

"Higher rates are necessary to maintain the standard of Missouri journalism, and will benefit the public by their tendency to eliminate from our advertising columns adventurers with a little capital who, unknown to the publisher, seek to exploit questionable merchandise by newspaper advertising. More faith would thus be created in the announcements of reputable firms."

BANDAGE NOT USED

WRAPPINGS ELIMINATED IN THE LATEST WOUND HEALING.

OZONE, QUICK HEALER

Treatment Simplicity Itself and No
Painful Bandaging and Rebandaging Exhausts Patient.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

London, Oct. 3.—Bandages are eliminated in the latest methods of healing obstinate wounds here. This is one of the marvelous developments of surgery to which the war has given impetus.

One of the horrors of hospitals is dressing wounds. Strong, brave men scream involuntarily with pain every day when the bandages are removed and the wounds treated.

At Queen Alexandria's Military Hospital today several patients were exhibited undergoing the new treatment. Two of these men were most severely wounded in September of last year, and for ten months had been treated in the customary way without any sign of healing. On August 2 they were brought to this hospital, the bandages were flung away, the wounds were subjected to repeated applications of a stream of ozone, being lightly covered with a loose layer of lint in the intervals, and in four days healing was in rapid progress.

This treatment is simplicity itself. Oxygen passes from a reservoir into an electrical machine which converts it into ozone; the ozone flows out through a fine metal tube. The machine is wheeled close to the patient's side, the wound uncovered, and a stream of the microbe-killing ozone flows into the deepest recesses. No painful dragging off of bandages, no re-bandaging of the limb to hurt and exhaust the patient.

Here was seen a soldier who had lost his right foot, with a stump covered with skin so healthy and hard that he could walk upon it—a surgical marvel.

What might be called the open-air treatment for wounds has come to stay. At the Herbert hospital is a soldier with a bad compound fracture of the leg. The limb is not swathed in many yards of bandages as was the custom, but lies between sandbags to secure immobility and is covered only with a single layer of lint. The lint is kept constantly wet with peroxide of hydrogen. Surrounding the leg is a large cage covered with a sheet of thin buttermilk, so that the wound is continually refreshed by a free current of air. Extremely rapid healing and freedom from the agony of manipulation are the great gains from this mode of treatment.

The whirlpool bath is entirely a war invention from which excellent results in cases of stiff joints have been obtained in France. It consists of a small oblong bath, filled with water which is kept in continuous movement by a miniature propeller revolved at a high speed by means of an electric motor. A stiff arm or leg, hand or foot, placed in the bath and kept there for some time is much improved by the stimulus of the running water. Marvelous examples of bone repair are to be seen, such as the transference of a large piece of bone from the leg to fill a gap in the arm bone or jaw.

Trench foot is being more or less successfully treated by massage, operation and other methods.

All sorts of joint injuries go to the Hammersmith hospital and there, as well as other hospitals, is to be seen a collection of ingenious exercises for restoring mobility. When the surgeon has done all that he can the patient goes to the masseurs and the exercisers. If his wrist is stiff he twists a bar with graduated resistance; if he cannot fully close his hand he grasps a thick bar and turns it, passing on to thinner and thinner bars as the hand improves; the patient with a stiff knee is put to exercise on a stationary bicycle; others, according to the nature and situation of the defect, practice rowing, climbing ladders, pulling on weighted ropes; and with these curative exercises is combined massage, with electric treatment, and other remedies.

In the laboratories of the Royal Arm Medical College vaccines are made to secure the men against typhoid fever, which used to be more fatal in war than the bayonet and the bullet combined; paratyphoid fever, so rare formerly, so common now in France; the cholera of Saloniki and Egypt; and pneumonia, one of the soldiers' worst trench enemies in cold weather.

About ten million doses of these vaccines have been sent out from Millwall since the war began. Among them is a most valuable mixed vaccine which gives protection from both typhoid and the two forms of paratyphoid fever. This has been in use since January last. Quite new, since the war began, are the measures taken for discovering whether anyone who comes in contact with soldiers is carrying the infection of spotted fever at the back of his nose, for, although himself quite free from the disease, such a carrier might create an epidemic in camp.

Serum, too, for the cure of spotted fever, is made here, and by its use the death rate has been reduced from over 50 per cent to 25 per cent in all cases, and as low as 9 per cent when the remedy can be used within three days of the commencement of the attack.

Obituary.

Our little homes were quickly turned into gloom and sadness when the message came to us of the passing away of our dear friend and brother, John. It came to us as twilight was stealing into our homes, as we were all gathered around our firesides, and the message was read to us. We recently bowed our heads and with great tears in our eyes we sent up a prayer to the Great Physician, the One who heals all our sorrowful wounds, to be with the dear ones at home—father, mother, brothers and sisters—in this the darkest hour of their lives. But why should it be the darkest hour, when we know John has just stepped across the veil to be with his Maker, and will be watching and waiting for his loved ones to enter there. We were all so unhappy because we were unable to be with them in this dark hour, or to send flowers as we intended to. Brother Harry intended to be with them, but the telegram came too late for him to get there in time to pay the last respects to his life-long friend and chum. Flowers were sent us by his dear mother and sister in remembrance of John, which were so delicate and fair,

Why Henry Ford Is Supporting President Wilson

Declaring the eight-hour day is a good thing for business, and that President Wilson is keeping the "unseen hands" off the Government, Henry Ford yesterday told why he had decided to vote for Woodrow Wilson for President.

"I'm for Wilson," said Ford, "because he is onto the interests—the unseen hands that seek to control government—and is holding them off, as is proven by his refusal to rush into war with Mexico, sacrificing the lives of thousands of young Americans, to save the dollars that Wall Street has invested in Mexico on a gamble."

"But for purely business reasons, which may appeal more directly to many men, the welfare of the country demands Wilson's re-election. The Republicans are raising a great roar about the eight-hour law and how it will hamper business. I say—and I speak from experience, not from guess-work—that the eight-hour law will help business. Business men and employers who are hostile to the eight-hour day do not know their business."

"We have had the eight-hour day in force in the Ford factory for three years, and we have made more money each succeeding year under it. It has proved its own merit."

"The business of the United States today has a momentum that no man or group of men can stop. As for the tariff, which the Republicans insist must be revised to help save our prosperity after the war, I want to say that the tariff is nothing but a hot-house remedy."

"I am a Republican, but I'm for Wilson. I'm a Republican for the same reason I have ears—I was born that way. But I'm for Wilson because I believe he can do more to enhance the prosperity and assure peace for this nation, than any other candidate."

"Anyone who does not want peace and who wants to gamble with prosperity should vote against him."

and they indeed brought memories we shall always cherish. We have known John from boyhood, and as time went on he became to us as a brother, which endeared him to us beyond expression, and we realized he was to us one of the dearest friends of a lifetime. John was young in years and he was good far beyond the ordinary application of the word. He had barely crossed the threshold of manhood. He was in that period of life which ordinarily marks a man's greatest promise of physical and mental vigor. His mentality was abnormally broad and strong. His impulses were pure as a crystal spring, his character was as clean as the driven snow. As son, as brother, as friend, he stood as the very highest type. Gifted with a peculiar charm of manner he bound his friends to him with links of steel. It is said that "Death loves a shining mark." Certainly, in this case, the white plague laid its withering blight upon a "shining mark." We believe that John for most a year was fully aware of the fate that awaited him. He was thoroughly conscious that the end must come to him soon. He displayed the same courage in face of this unconquerable foe as he had displayed in the presence of difficulties which he had overcome, and with the sweet assurance of a home "Over There," he passed to the beautiful Beyond. Dear brother John, we shall miss you, your cheery letters, your pleasant smile, and that visit you promised us this fall. But God saw best, for He has taken you to visit Him through-out eternity and we shall have a long visit with you in the sweet by and by. When we received the flowers in remembrance of John, how plainly it came into our minds how dearly he loved flowers and music, and how he used to sit by the hour and play our victrola. His favorite piece was "Sometime We'll Understand," and we played it Sunday in memory of him, and at the time he seemed so near to us we could all but grasp his hand. O God, our Father, enter Thou into that desolate home, bind up the bruised and broken hearts with the oil of Thy love that they may look through their tears to the rainbow of hope and follow on without fear and doubting into that realm where all mysteries shall be solved, all sorrows melted into joy, soul touch soul in an everlasting communion, and where they will find John with his pleasant smile and outstretched arms, and they will hear his voice saying, "Loved ones, I am waiting for you." And, O Father, be with that dear mother, who has been so brave and courageous through it all. For months she cared for him, though her heart was breaking with the knowledge of what the end must be, though she never faltered, but stayed with him until God took him home. Now, farewell, John, farewell, though you have left us and no more on earth we shall see, but we will meet you again on that far away shore where sickness and sorrow will not break, and where his parents and loved ones will find consolation that here is abiding rest, and when the awakening comes for him it cannot but be glorious and fair. Good bye, John, goodbye.
